

Maggie Jarrett

EDITOR AND STRATEGIC PARTNER

Maggie Jarrett has held a variety of roles at CommPac over a span of nearly 20 years, interspersed with communications and executive positions on the mainland, including as a freelance writer for a national health care journal and as a director of a regional arts council.

Much of Maggie's career has been focused on healthcare marketing, physician, and public relations. She previously worked in Hawai'i in those fields at The Queen's Medical Center and St. Francis Healthcare System of Hawaii.

In addition to her editing responsibilities, she has provided media relations and strategic communications counsel to a variety of CommPac's clients including the Shidler College of Business at the University of Hawai'i (UH), Mānoa; First Insurance Company of Hawaii; the Friends of the UH Cancer Center; Aloha Festivals; UnitedHealthcare; Lunalilo Home and Ho'ōla Nā Pua.

Maggie graduated from the University of Missouri School of Journalism with a bachelor of journalism degree and completed additional coursework towards a master's degree in public health.

She moved to Hawai'i for the first time in 1978, made several moves back to the mainland over the years, and returned "for good" in 2015. She and her Golden Retriever, Abby, make their home in Kailua.