

Katherine Baker

ACCOUNT COORDINATOR

Slated to serve in the Peace Corps as a teacher in Armenia in 2020, Katherine "Katie" Baker's life was put on hold due to COVID-19. Like many professionals, she quickly pivoted, and landed in Arizona where she began working as an in-home care assistant for the elderly. Talking story with individuals in the final stages of life, she gained a deeper understanding of the importance of compassion, kindness and bringing joy wherever one can.

After nearly two years in Arizona, Katherine followed a whim and accepted a position working on a tropical flower farm on Maui. After seven months cultivating exotic plants and caring for a chicken flock, Katherine applied for an account coordinator position with CommPac and joined the team in March 2022.

Before her jump to the Pacific, Katherine graduated from Cornell College, cum laude, in 2019 with a bachelor's degree in international relations and Spanish. With a background in politics, her understanding of government and advocacy are valuable in working with clients who are navigating the legislative landscape.

Katherine's passion for people has brought her around the world, volunteering, studying and fostering community among strangers. Most notably, she worked in India for three months with the Comprehensive Rural Health Project (CRHP), bolstering gender development and healthcare access in rural regions of the Maharashtra state.

Katherine has advanced proficiency in Adobe programs and website design. Her love of audiovisual work began during her undergrad years and has found its application with video news release services now offered by CommPac.

Katherine brings high energy, adaptability and a sense of adventure to her role with CommPac and the clients she serves; striving towards what is possible just beyond what is comfortable.
